I pray to God that he will bring us happily together.
I kiss you with all my love.“

Robert Schumann 1810 – 1856

Song Cycle Myrten op. 25

The song cycle Myrten op. 25 was Robert Schumann's wedding present to Clara Wieck. He was finally able to marry her, after a difficult and painful period of separation that was caused by objections raised by her father Friedrich Wieck. The feelings and experiences of both these extraordinary persons are impressively mirrored in their letters and in the song cycle Myrten. This collection of songs is a fascinating and heart-rending plea for that love which does not permit a loss of belief in the triumph of goodness even in the midst of the most difficult personal situation. The reading of these letters, combined with Schumann's wonderful songs, promises an evening not to be forgotten.
